Visual anthropology and media anthropology - is far more than a reduction on ethnographic film as it was originally intended when this subject was developed - it covers a broad spectrum of research opportunities, which have provided and still provide new approaches to the subject matter – as in my courses, the great range of conceptual implementation possibilities of visual and media anthropology have been introduced.

By the recent pandemic global crisis virtual realities became common - yet producing a film became more complicated. Thus 'thank you' to those students who decided for the difficult way of film production during the pandemic crisis to reach a final assignment. I am delighted to show these productions which could not be presented until now.

Furthermore, the visual documentations finalized in 2022 will be presented, as well - a choice of the most communicative documents of this course.
